Welcome to Haikou, Hainan, China

Haikou is the capital and most populous city of Hainan province. Also known as the "Coconut city", Haikou is an important tourist destination for China. It is situated on the northern coast of Hainan. The northern part of the city is the district of Haidian Island, which is separated from the main part of Haikou by the Haidian River.

Haikou was originally a port city. Today, more than half of the island's total trade still goes through its ports. The city is home to Hainan University, which has its main campus on Haidian Island.

Haikou has hot summers and warm winters, usually with high humidity. In January, Haikou is around 14 - 20 °C.

Some brief introduction about famous attractions in Haikou:

Bo'ai Road is located on the south side of the Haidian River, at the northern part of mainland Haikou. Much of the area comprises arcade style, dilapidated buildings with European fusion-type architectural facades with Indian and Arabic influences.

Evergreen Park is a park located on Binhai Road about 200 m west of the southern foot of Haikou Century Bridge. It is the largest park in Haikou, containing approximately ten thousand coconut trees and several hundred species of South Asian ornamental plants.

Holiday Beach is a 7 kilometers (4.3 miles)-long beach and visitor attraction adjacent to the west side of Haikou.

Baishamen Park (White Sand Gate Park) was created in 2010 and is located on the north Shore of Haidian Island.
